JURISDICTION

- This Accusation is brought before the Board, under the authority of the following laws. All section references are to the Business and Professions Code unless otherwise indicated.
- 4. Section 2227 of the Code provides that a licensee who is found guilty under the Medical Practice Act may have his or her license revoked, suspended for a period not to exceed one year, placed on probation and required to pay the costs of probation monitoring, or such other action taken in relation to discipline as the Board deems proper.

- "(1) An initial negligent diagnosis followed by an act or omission medically appropriate for that negligent diagnosis of the patient shall constitute a single negligent act.
- "(2) When the standard of care requires a change in the diagnosis, act, or omission that constitutes the negligent act described in paragraph (1), including, but not limited to, a reevaluation of the diagnosis or a change in treatment, and the licensee's conduct departs from the applicable standard of care, each departure constitutes a separate and distinct breach of the standard of care."
- 6. Section 2266 of the Code states: "The failure of a physician and surgeon to maintain adequate and accurate records relating to the provision of services to their patients constitutes unprofessional conduct."

FIRST CAUSE FOR DISCIPLINE

(Repeated Negligent Acts)

7. Respondent's license is subject to disciplinary action under section 2234, subdivision

- (c), of the Code in that he committed repeated negligent acts in his care and treatment of Patient

 1. The circumstances are as follows:
- 8. At all times relevant to the charges herein, Respondent was a licensed physician and surgeon practicing internal medicine.
- 9. Patient 1 was a forty-three-year-old male when he first treated with Respondent in June 2004. His medical history included hypertension and headaches.
- 10. On or about November 29, 2011, Patient 1 presented with dizziness and headaches. Respondent believed the dizziness could be attributed to Patient 1's blood pressure medication. Respondent changed the blood pressure medication and prescribed tramadol and Vicodin for the headaches. Respondent claimed he instructed Patient 1 to try tramadol first because it was less potent, and if that did not work, to take the Vicodin.
- 11. Approximately three weeks later, on or about December 22, 2011, Respondent returned for follow-up, still complaining about headaches. Respondent believed anxiety played a role in the headaches and started Patient 1 on Ativan because it had helped him in the past. Respondent prescribed another 30 tablets of Vicodin as well as Ativan 1 mg (30 tablets). The progress note indicated that Patient 1 was planning to see neurology the following week.
- 12. When Patient 1 returned on March 2, 2012, he told Respondent he was seeing a behavioral therapist instead of a neurologist. Because he was still complaining of anxiety, Respondent prescribed Celexa. On or about May 4, 2012, Patient 1 returned for follow-up indicating that the Celexa did not help. Respondent was given refills for Vicodin (60 tablets) and Ativan (60 tablets).
- 13. On or about June 8, 2012, Patient 1 continued to complain of anxiety, headaches, and back pain. He was now taking Vicodin three times per day. Respondent wrote a new prescription for Vicodin (90 tablets) and refilled Ativan (60 tablets). These same medications were refilled on October 19, 2012.
- 14. At the next visit, on or about February 5, 2013, Respondent refilled Vicodin (90 tablets) and Ativan was increased to 2 mg. These prescriptions were refilled at Patient 1's final visit with Respondent on May 23, 2013.

- 15. On or about June 2, 2013, Patient 1 was found deceased at his residence. The coroner's medical report indicated the cause of death to be "effects of hydrocodone and ethanol."
- 16. At the time Respondent treated Patient 1, the standard of care for prescribing controlled substances provided that a treatment plan should state objectives by which the treatment plan could be evaluated, such as pain relief and/or improved physical and psychosocial function, and indicate if any further diagnostic evaluations or other treatments were planned. The physician should tailor pharmacological therapy to the individual medical needs of each patient. Multiple treatment modalities and/or a rehabilitation program may be necessary if the pain is complex or is associated with physical and psychosocial impairment.
- 17. At the time Respondent treated Patient 1, the standard of care provided that a physician should discuss the risks and benefits of the use of controlled substances and other treatment modalities with the patient, caregiver, or guardian.
- 18. At the time Respondent treated Patient 1, the standard of care provided that a physician should periodically review the course of pain treatment and any new information about the etiology of the pain or the patient's state of health. Continuation or modification of controlled substances for pain management therapy depends on the physician's evaluation of progress toward treatment objectives. If the patient's progress is unsatisfactory, the physician should assess the appropriateness of continued use of the current treatment plan and consider the use of other therapeutic modalities.
- 19. At the time Respondent treated Patient 1, the standard of care provided a physician should keep accurate and complete records, including the medical history and physical examination, other evaluations and consultations, treatment plan objectives, informed consent, treatments, medications, rationale for changes in the treatment plan or medications, agreements with the patient, and periodic reviews of the treatment plan.
- 20. Respondent's care and treatment of Patient 1, as set forth above in Paragraphs 8 through 14, includes the following acts and/or omissions which constitute repeated negligent acts:
 - a. Respondent failed to document a treatment plan.
 - b. Respondent was unaware of controlled substance prescribing guidelines that
